THE GERMAN COLONIES.

The Herero rebellion in South-West Africa has now continued more than a year and a half; and, so far as can be judged from the reports of the German Commanders there, it is far from being subdued yet. Another draft of officers and men has been shipped from Hamburg within the last few days: and these are to be supplemented during the present month with a further consignment. With the aid of these troops, and those already at the front, the authorities in Berlin hope to restore order before it becomes necessary to have recourse to the Reichstag for a new subsidy. Should they be forced to apply to the Imperial Parliament for increased monetary assistance, the Government would, of course, receive it: but they are anxious to avoid it, not only in the interest of economy, but in view of the criticisms on the military efficiency of the nation, and the acrid political campaign that would be at once waged against the Kaiser's administration by that large and growing body of men who are utterly out of sympathy with his views. It is certainly true that opponents of the Government cannot express their opinion in Germany with the freedom to which we are accustomed in England and France, but by biting innuendo, by overstrained and coarse caricature, and by the happy historical method which draws uncomfortable conclusions from the disruption of the mediæval Teutonic Empire, they can achieve their ultimate ends of embarrassing and discrediting a policy which they hate.

In the opinion of many, both in Germany and England, who have studied the oversea expansion of the Empire, the safety of the nation at home is being jeopardised: and it is freely admitted that, while a great people might be content to run some risks if they could see any prospect of such a future success as has attended the British colonial policy, the results at present achieved do not give any reason for hope. The stream of German emigration still flows mainly to the United States; and though the young man who crosses the Atlantic holds fast to his family connections in Europe, and preserves a certain sentimental affection for the Fatherland, he quickly loses all interest in, or becomes an uncompromising opponent of, the dreams of a Greater Germany that are cherished at home. As to that Greater Germany itself, the ideal was conceived by a few University professors, strong in their belief of the moral power of the Teutonic people, and regretful that the force of the nation was dissipated in internal quarrels. It was changed into action by Bismarck and the present Emperor, who encouraged emigration to South America and the Australasian Islands. The Monroe doctrine stopped the former; the intense patriotism of the English in Australia showed the danger of the latter: and Germany was forced to turn elsewhere. At the present day there are three colonial projects on hand. There is the movement for closer colonisation of Africa, assisted by Imperial subsidy, and the development of trade with the still independent parts of that continent, until a Protectorate becomes possible that will secure German commerce to the exclusion of all others. There is the hope of expansion in China, which a few years ago was hailed by the more sanguine spirits as a land destined to fall to Germany, as India has fallen to England; the Japanese victories and the fear of a Chinese Renascence have, however, ended all thoughts of an Eastern Empire. Finally, there is the very curious project that aims at something more than paramount influence in Asia Minor. This latter, has been ventilated of late in some of the German newspapers; and it apparently proceeds from the idea, that in the event of the Turkish Empire becoming disintegrated, Germany would find her opportunity in stepping forward as the upholder of Mohamedan unity in all parts of the world—receiving, not unnaturally, a full quid pro quo for services rendered.

In Germany itself, there is a noisy section of the public which explains and applauds such schemes to that mass of the nation which cares for none of these things. At Berlin, indeed, the oracles are dumb; the Emperor seldom alludes to colonial expansion; but the exponents of "World Politics" are not slow to interpret his silence. Assisted perhaps by a judicious hint from headquarters, they declare that Germany is now the determining voice in European affairs; that in the world at large her shipping has already surpassed that of France, and is beginning to run a neck-and-neck race with England; and that Germanism, which has spent centuries in maturing, is now ripe for the conquest of the world. We do not believe that the German people will be carried away by such wild talk. We are convinced that the most advanced and most educated parts of the German community have no love for the "mailed fist" which has been too freely in evidence. The dream of a Greater Germany has intoxicated many worthy persons; and it is not surprising that after the "great years," when the victories over Austria, Denmark, and France had been accomplished, some should believe that all paths would be easy for the conquering Teutons. But disillusion has followed. The sterility of the colonies that have been acquired, the impossibility of inducing farmers to settle there, and the enormous cost of maintaining them, added to the heavy taxation at home, made many grumble before the Herero rising. When this happened, there was a loyal co-operation to end the rebellion, and not a little joy that foreigners would have an opportunity of seeing the calibre of the Army. But now that nothing brilliant has been done, and the guerilla warfare drags on from month to month, a reaction has set in that may turn the trend of thought from expansion abroad to reform at home.

THE TSAR'S MANIFESTO.

INDIFFERENCE OF THE PEOPLE

EDUCATED CLASSES DISQUALIFIED.

St. Petersburg, August 21.

The complete absence of enthusiasm is the most striking feature of the Russian press comments regarding the Assembly project. There are no signs of rejoicing anywhere. The high rental qualification of the town voters excludes the majority of the educated classes. Only 5,000 inhabitants in St. Petersburg are qualified.

Rioting took place at Kichineff following the publication of the project. Several thousand demonstrators were dispersed by the mounted police. (Reuter)

FROM CANADA TO INDIA.

London, August 21.

(Official). Lord Minto will succeed Viscount Curzon. (Reuter)

The new Viceroy of India is son of the third Earl of Minto. Born on July 9, 1847, he was educated at Eton and Trinity College, Cambridge. An ensign in the Scots Guards in 1867, he saw active service with the Turkish Army in 1877, and in the second Afghan war in 1879. He acted as private secretary to Lord Roberts during the latter's brief visit to the Cape in 1881, volunteered for the Egyptian campaign in 1885, and was military secretary to the Marquis of Lansdowne while the present Foreign Minister was Governor General of Canada in 1883-85. In 1885 he was chief of the staff during the hard fought little campaign against the rebellious Indians and half-breds in the north-west of the Dominion. He contested Hexham in 1886, and in 1891 succeeded to the title. He was created G.C.M.G. in 1898, in which year he was appointed Governor-General of Canada, a post which he filled with consistent success till 1904, when he was succeeded by Earl Grey. Lord Minto married, in 1885, Mary, daughter of General the Hon. Charles Grey.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Quarantine.—Arrivals from Adalia are now subjected to a medical visit only.

Greek Philharmonic Society.—A concert will be given by this society to-morrow evening, commencing at 9 p.m.

Delta Barrage.—A building for models is to be constructed at the Delta Barrage in the near future.

The Post Office at Sennar is now opened to foreign ordinary, inland ordinary, and telegraphic money service.

Commercial Treaties.—It is hoped that the commercial treaty between Egypt and Italy will be signed in November.

Stray and Ownerless Dogs found in the Imam district of Cairo during to-morrow night and at dawn of the 23rd inst. will be poisoned by the police.

The Plague.—Yesterday's plague bulletin records one new admission to hospital at Port Said, and the recovery of the solitary case at Dekerness.

Suez Canal.—16 vessels passed through the Canal on the 18th inst., 11 of which were British, 1 German, 2 French, 1 Turkish, 1 Austrian. The day's receipts were frs. 424,603.23 making the total from the 1st inst. frs. 5,580,764.21.

Injured by a Buffalo.—A startled buffalo cow ran down a man and woman on Sunday in Moharrem Bey quarter. The woman was severely injured and requires fifteen days treatment. The man came off comparatively lightly.

A Brutal Husband.—On Sunday a certain Hassan Aisa Ali hurled a lighted lamp at his wife Zanouba, who had asked him for some money for household expenses, inflicting serious burns on the poor woman, who has had to be removed to hospital.

Killed by Scorpions.—Two more deaths from the stings of scorpions are reported from Cairo, a child having died from this cause in the Darb el Ahmar quarter, and another in Old Cairo, where such fataltties have been comparatively common of late.

Injured at Play.—A lad named Ismaïl Abd el Moneim, 11 years of age, was flying his kite from the roof of a house at El Halwagi, near the Customs, on Sunday, when he made a false step, and fell into the street, sustaining injuries that necessitate ten days' medical treatment.

Attempted Murder.—A Cairene butcher named Ahmed el Habashi recently quarrelled in the course of an argument with Hafzallah Mankarius and stabbed him in the abdomen. The police of the Khalifa kism have since arrested the would-be murderer, whose victim has been taken to hospital.

The Sarkis Affair.—We are glad to hear that the Armenian community of Alexandria has decided to send the two young girls concerned in this painful affair to an Armenian convent for orphans at Constantinople. The decision does great credit to the humanity and common sense of our Armenian fellow citizens.

The Alhambra Theatre.—To-morrow night the Della Guardia Dramatic Company will present Le Pillole d'Ercole at this theatre. Lorde's drama La Dormiente will be given very shortly and the company also bills Pamela Marchande de Frivolités to appear soon. Subscription tickets may be obtained at the box-office of the theatre.

Hashish Seizures.—Six turbas of hashish were found in a sack of flower by the Customs authorities yesterday, whilst on Saturday two women named Luisa Moretti and Elena Cassapido while returning from the S.S. Imperator Nicolai were arrested by the quay police. The female searcher employed discovered eight turbas of hashish concealed in their skirts.

The Liege Exhibition.—Among the members of the Jury of the International Exhibition at Liege we notice the name of Mr. Collonge, director general of Berlitz Schools. This official nomination is still another homage rendered to a celebrated institution, and to a system which has rendered possible such progress in the study of modern languages. 26347-1

British Chamber of Commerce.—We would draw the attention of manufacturers and merchants to the work of the British Chamber of Commerce of Egypt, which was formed in 1896 with the sole object of assisting British trade in this country. The services of the Chamber are always at the disposal of any member desiring information on trade matters generally, including the question of appointing suitable agents. As no fee is charged for such advice, it is obviously in the interests of all British traders here to become members, especially when it is remembered that the annual subscription is merely the nominal one £1. The latter payment also includes a copy of the monthly Journal issued by the Chamber. Home enquirers can obtain further particulars from our London office, 36, New Broad-street which acts as agents to the Chamber.

THE SULTAN'S ACCESSION.

DINNER AT RAS EL TIN.

Invitations will be issued this week by the Cabinet of the Grand Master of Ceremonies for the banquet which will be given by the Acting Regent at Ras el Tin Palace on September 1st. Among the guests will be the ministers, advisers and under-secretaries of state, the Diplomatic Agents of the Domains Administration, and the Caisse de la Dette, the State Railways and other Administrations, General Bullock, the Acting Governor of Alexandria, and the Consuls of the Powers at Alexandria.

THE YEMEN RISING.

In his report on the recent action at Sebk-el-Hamis, Marshal Ahmed Faizi Pasha, Commander of the Ottoman forces in the Yemen, states that the action lasted from 3 a.m. to midday, and that the retreating rebels left many dead behind them. Turkish authority is re-established at Menakhkha.

THE COTTON-WORM.

The bulletin issued by the Ministry of the Interior for the week ending last Saturday again shows a very considerable decrease in the area of land in which the cotton-worm still exists. The following are the reports from the four affected provinces.

Gharbieh :—325 feddans, belonging to 58 proprietors, have been affected by the worm, and 311 of these have been cleared by 713 children.

Behera :—2,396 feddans, belonging to 48 proprietors, have been affected, and 2,304 have been cleared by 6,641 children.

Dakahlieh :—109 feddans, belonging to 45 proprietors, have been affected, and 102 cleared by 310 children.

Damietta :—9½ feddans, belonging to 9 proprietors, have been affected, and have all been cleared by 61 children.

Comparing the above with the report of last week, we find that the number of affected provinces is reduced by one, Kalioubieh being now entirely free from the worm. In the Gharbieh province the number of affected feddans shows a decrease of 314, in Dakahlieh a decrease of 13, in Damietta a decrease of 11½, and in Behera an increase of 1,141 feddans. The increase in the number of feddans attacked in the Behera province must in no way be taken to indicate a general increase, for it must be remembered that this province has suffered much more severely, not only during the present year, but also in former ones, than any other, and in the reports of each week we have noted a considerable numerical difference between the areas attacked and those cleared. It is obvious that the insect is much more strongly established in this province than in any other. Those who know the Prodenia littoralis find it one of the commonest of the moths which fly round lamps or electric lights at night in Alexandria and the neighbourhood.

SUMMER LEAVES.

Leave of absence has been granted to the following officials of the Sudan Government and Army Officers until the undermentioned dates :—

THE LATE MENSHAWI PASHA.

Dissensions and disputes having arisen of late between the heirs to the immense properties left by Ahmed Menshawi Pasha, the wealthy landed proprietor who died suddenly in Cairo some months ago, three native notables have been appointed arbitrators by the Meglis El Hasby. They are Ismail Pasha Abaza, Hassan Pasha Rassim and Saad Bey Zaglool. The heirs are the lady Fatma Amen, the widow, daughter of the late Abdalla Pasha Inglisi, an Englishman, a daughter, and two sons, one of whom is at Tourah serving a long term of imprisonment on a charge of murder. The late Menshawi Pasha left properties which give, it is reported, an annual income of £40,000 at least, but a portion of his large estates were handed over to the Wakfs for the benefit of the poor and certain mosques. It is certain clauses in his will that have been the cause of the dissensions between the members of his family, who are seeking to set aside some of them. The son, who is now in prison was, it appears, disinherited, and he is also disputing the will, but it is hoped and expected that the arbitrators recently named will be able to settle the difference that have arisen and satisfy all the interested parties.

CAIRO TRAMWAYS.

CONDITIONS OF CONCESSION.

Monday's 'Official Journal' contains the text of the concession granted to the Cairo Tramways Company by the Egyptian Government. We have already described the routes to be followed by the new lines, and will confine ourselves to mentioning the principal conditions imposed by the Government, which are of considerable interest.

The Tramways Company undertakes to use no rails in the future but those of the 'Phœnix' type of 53 kilogrammes per metre, and to replace the rails at present in use by the above mentioned type by December 31, 1920, at latest. The Pyramids line, however, will form an exception to this rule, for the rails of the "Vignol" type will be retained in use between Kasr-el Nil and Mena House. Of the tramways the Saptieh and Shoubra lines are to be completed and working within two years of the signature of the concession (i.e. from July 18, 1905), the Sahel (Rod el Farag) line within five years, and the Ghamrah and Abattoirs lines within one year from the above date. The doubling of the old Cairo line is to be completed by the end of this month, greatly to the relief, we imagine, of all who live near the Kasr el Aini Road.

The line from Foum el Khalig to the Southern bridge over the small branch of the Nile will be constructed concurrently with the widening of the road by the Tanzim.

The Ghizeh line across Rodah Island and the new bridges will be completed as soon as the bridges are open to heavy traffic, and the Imam-el-Shafféi line is to be completed within fifteen years from the 18th ult. The minimum radius of all curves is fixed at 25 metres, except in special cases which the Ministry of Public Works will determine. The speed of the trams is not to exceed twelve kilometres an hour and must be reduced at all points where the Ministry of Public Works considers a lower speed necessary in the interests of public safety. The new and the previous concessions expire simultaneously, viz. on December 5, 1951, when the whole of the properties of the Tramways Company will fall to the Government.

MENA HOUSE.

There have been persistent rumours for some time in Cairo that the Mena House Hotel and the surrounding property of some 100 feddans, belonging to Mrs. Locke-King, widow of the late owner, had been acquired by, or were under option to, the Nungovich Hotels Company, but we are informed that such is not the fact. The facts of the case are that an offer of purchase for £120,000 was recently made by the representatives of an English syndicate to the lady's agent, but was refused, and since then it was offered to the above company at a slightly higher price, which offer was not, however, accepted.

The original hotel buildings and the different additions and improvements made since have, it is said, cost from first to last £80,000. The hotel is held by Mr. E. Weckel, the present proprietor manager, on a ten years' lease, of which about seven years are expired, at an annual rental of £4,000. There is no likelihood of there being any immediate change, however, in the ownership of the property, as Mr. Weckel, who is now at Lucerne, has just sent out orders for all the repairs necessary for the re-opening of the hotel on the 1st November to be proceeded with at once.

THE COMING ECLIPSE.

The Survey Department has issued through the Press Bureau in Cairo the following interesting particulars regarding the coming eclipse of the sun.

The central line of the total eclipse of August 30 will pass near the railway station of Khattara, about 12 kilometres north of Assouan ; the phenomena will be visible as a total eclipse from near Edfu to near the village of Dakka, south of Assouan ; north and south of this area the eclipse will be partial, and at Cairo about nine-tenths of the sun's disc will be covered.

The eclipse will commence in Cairo at four minutes past three, at thirteen minutes past four it will have reached its middle, and the end will be at fifteen minutes past five. The time will not differ greatly in the Nile Valley localities.

EGYPTIAN GOVERNMENT TELEGRAPHS.

After several postponements occasioned by delay in the completion of the premises, the central Government telegraph office in Cairo is to be transferred on the 1st September to the new buildings in the Sharia Boulak belonging to the Daïra Khassa, which have been taken on a ten years' lease at a rental of L.E. 500 per annum. The new offices will occupy part of the ground floor and are an immense improvement on the old ones, which had become much too small for the great increase of business especially since the opening of the Cairo bourse two years ago.

STAMPED PAPER.

A CASE FOR REFORM.

Whenever one turns to the "Official Gazette" for information re tenders, sales of public land etc. etc., the formula—'tenders must be submitted on stamped paper' appears in every notice. Under these circumstances it seems to us rather extraordinary that stamped paper is unobtainable at the Gouvernorat of Alexandria except in quantities of 1,000 or more sheets at a time. For smaller quantities the buyer must go to the Post Office, or to a small shop in the Turkish market quite half-an-hour's walk from the Gouvernorat. We cannot help thinking that the convenience of the public would be better served, if the indispensible sheets of "papier timbré" were procurable at the Gouvernorat. Alexandria, be it remembered, is a town of long distances, and the fact that stamped paper is obtainable in the Souk-el-Turki and at the Post Office is not very comforting to persons who are equidistant from both these places, and, when applying to the Gouvernorat, are informed that their needs cannot be served unless they care to take a thousand sheets,—more than enough to last the ordinary man for a lifetime.

S.S. GIBRALTAR AGAIN ON FIRE.

(From our Correspondent.)

Suez, Monday.

The cargo of the S.S. Gibraltar which was on fire at Suez last Thursday afternoon, suddenly took fire again on Saturday after noon, and again yesterday.

Thanks to prompt assistance, the fire was soon extinguished by flooding the hold, and the vessel is now discharging the damaged cargo in lighters, in order to avoid similar probable outbreaks.

A NEW MOSS LINER.

Messrs. Archibald M'Millan and Son, Limited, shipbuilders, Dumbarton, launched on the 8th inst. the steel screw steamer Menepthah, which they have built to the order of the Moss Steamship Co., Liverpool (Messrs. James Moss and Co.) for their Mediterranean trade. The vessel, which has been built to Lloyd's highest class, is of the following dimensions :—Length 315 feet, breadth 44 feet 6 inches, depth moulded 25 feet 5 inches, and is fitted with all the latest improvements for the rapid and efficient working of cargo. Large and airy state rooms have been fitted amidships for the accommodation of first-class passengers, for whom also is provided on the bridge deck a handsomely fitted entrance hall lounge, and smokeroom. Over these is fitted a large promenade deck, on which is placed the captain's accommodation and chart-room. The second-class passengers are accommodated aft in the poop, and the officers and engineers' rooms are fitted under the bridge deck. The vessel is lighted by electricity throughout, and ample refrigerating chambers have been fitted for the preservation of provisions. The machinery is of the triple-explansion type. The vessel and machinery have been superintended during construction by Messrs. William Esplen and Son, Liverpool, and the christening ceremony was performed by Miss Harding, of Stanton, Bebington, Cheshire.

THE NICOSIA CHURCH.

To the Editor of the Egyptian Gazette.

Sir,—I was glad to read in a recent number of your esteemed journal that the little Anglican Church, at Nicosia, Cyprus, has been greatly improved, as regards decorations. It is a nice little church and what puzzles me, is why no steps have ever been taken to organise a proper choir. Probably they have one by now, but when I was there last summer no such thing existed. On my enquiring why they did not have one, I was told that there were not enough people, or some such excuse. Surely there must be four gentlemen and four or five ladies in Nicosia who can sing! If they were to practice once a week, as is done at the English Church here, I believe they would be able to conduct the service chorally, which is always nice, and I am sure the chaplain would prefer it. Very often the choir at St. Mark's only numbers about six persons, and yet they are able to conduct the service very well. I do not therefore see why no steps should be taken to furnish the church at Nicosia with a choir. The late Ven. Archdeacon Spencer, very often mentioned that it was a pity no choir existed—only it seems he did not try to get one up. The climate is very healthy, and I am surprised to find such a comparatively small British community. I am told that nothing goes ahead in Cyprus, and that all who have from time to time established businesses there had to sell up and leave. I am always interested in anything that deals with Cyprus.

I am, Sir, etc.,
A Well-Wisher of Cyprus.

CREDIT FONCIER SHARES.

To the Editor of the Egyptian Gazette.

Sir,—As there may be some holders of Credit Foncier Egyptien shares here whom it interests, I would call attention to a very curious feature in the quotations of their shares recently issued in Paris. There appears to be an attempt to lower their price until after the new issue.

Within the last ten days Paris quotation was frs. 815. An order sent to eight brokers in Paris to buy at 818 gave no execution, but the price rose to 822, then on no order being sent price was reduced to 816.

An order was sent to buy at 819, and a few shares were given and price was raised to 821, again no order was sent and price went up to 816, orders sent at 818 but no shares sold, and we close at 821. A Havas rumour says a great financier is striving to make the Credit Foncier shareholders abstain from the new issue, so that the Daira Sanieh shareholders may get a big interest in the Credit Foncier, and those who had Daira interest may retain an interest in Egyptian affairs, instead being paid off in cash. Hence this constant marking down of prices without sales.

Perhaps this note may save a Credit Foncier shareholder.

I am, Sir, etc.,
Lux.

INFORMATIONS FINANCIERES

Comme nous avons beaucoup parlé dans nos chroniques financières de la liquidation de la Daïra, nous sommes heureux de pouvoir mettre sous les yeux de nos lecteurs l'appréciation d'un correspondant financier dont la compétence ne fait aucun doute :—

L'Assemblée Générale des Actionnaires du Crédit Foncier Egyptien, tenue au Caire le 8 Juillet dernier, a approuvé l'acquisition des créances de la Société Egyptienne de la Daïra Sanieh aux conditions suivantes :

1° £6.353.000, en espèces payables le 1er Octobre 1905 à Paris ou à Londres suivant la convenance de la Daïra Sanieh, avec faculté pour le Crédit Foncier de proroger sur sa demande, le paiement d'une partie de cette somme (£2.000.000, au maximum), jusqu'au 15 Juillet 1907. La somme ainsi prorogée serait productive d'intérêt à raison de 4 % l'an.

2°) 200.000 actions du Crédit Foncier de Frs. 500.— libérées de Frs. 125. et au prix d'émission de Frs. 810., soit Frs. 435 effectifs. Toutefois la priorité est accordée aux anciens actionnaires du Crédit Foncier pour souscrire au même prix la totalité de ces actions. Celles ainsi allouées aux anciens actionnaires seront réglées le 15 Octobre 1905 en espèces, à la Daïra Sanieh, au prix fixé de Frs. 435.

La Daïra Sanieh encaisse donc au 15 Octobre 1905: £6.353.000 soit L.E. 6.194.175 et 200.000 actions Crédit Foncier à frs. 435=frs.87.000.000 L.E. 3.356.025, soit au total L.E. 9.550.200.

Les créances au 8 Juillet 1905 de la Daïra Sanieh s'élèvent à un total de L.E. 8.359.000. De cette somme il y a lieu de déduire le prix de la vente des terrains d'Ermente qui n'est pas compris dans la convention qui nous occupe, c'est-à-dire, L.E. 214.000. Il reste L.E. 8.145.000. Il en résulte donc en faveur de la Daïra Sanieh un bénéfice dans la cession des susdites créances de L.E. 1.405.200.

Nous basant sur ces données il nous est aisé d'établir le prix approximatif des actions de la Daïra Sanieh. D'après le dernier rapport de la dite Daïra le produit des terrains vendus au 31 mars 1905 s'élevait à L.E. 11.825.952. Restait à vendre environ pour L.E. 14.150, soit un total de L.E. 11.840.102. En déduisant le montant des terrains d'Ermente en suspens, soit L.E. 214,000, il reste L.E. 11.626.102. Si de cette somme on déduit les Obligations Hypothécaires 4% à amortir L.E. 5.554.079, il reste L.E. 7.072.023. La moitié de cette somme revenant au Gouvernement les bénéfices nets à partager entre les Actionnaires de la Daïra Sanieh s'élèvent à L.E. 3.536.011,500 ; ce qui avec les bénéfices résultant de la cession des créances hypothécaires, comme ci-dessus L.E. 1.405.200, fait un total de L.E. 4.941.211,500.

Il y a donc à partager L.E. 4.941.211,500. Moins 5 % au Conseil d'Administration, L.E. 247.060, cela donne L.E. 4.694.151,500, soit 40% aux parts de Fondateur L.E. 1.877.660,500 et 60 % aux actions ordinaires L.E. 2.816.491. Ce qui, à raison de L.E. 2.816.491, divisé en 118.006 actions produit pour chaque Action Ordinaire £24.9.7. plus le montant nominal de l'action £5.—.— soit £29.9.7.

Il resterait comme imprévu :

1°) L'affaire en litige avec le Gouvernement Egyptien pour les terrains d'Ermente.

2°) Le produit de la vente des machines, matériel, etc., se trouvant dans les divers teftiches de la Daïra Sanieh et actuellement mis en vente par voie d'enchères publiques.

3°) L'éventualité de la prorogation au 15 Juillet 1905-1907 du paiement de L.E. 2.000.000.

4°) Les intérêts accumulés jusqu'à ce jour d'une somme d'environ L.E. 3.000.000, montant des terrains vendus au comptant et des annuités encaissées jusqu'à ce jour.

5°) La différence entre l'intérêt de 5 % perçu du Gouvernement pour le dépôt de L.E. 500.000 et le dividende servi par la Daïra sur ses actions.

Conseil quarantenaire

Mr. le délégué sanitaire d'Allemagne a communiqué à la présidence du conseil quarantenaire un long rapport au sujet des vibrions, trouvés cette année dans l'intestin de quelques pèlerins décédés à Tor.

Le rapport est envoyé par M. le Directeur de l'Institut Royal pour les maladies infectieuses. En voici le résumé :

Comme suite à ma dernière communication j'ai l'honneur de soumettre un rapport détaillé à propos du même sujet par M. le professeur Kolle et M. le Dr. Meinicke, assistants de l'Institut.

J'avais dit qu'il serait à désirer que les cultures de Tor fussent données à l'Institut des maladies infectieuses pour y être soumises à un examen sérieux.

Le Président du Conseil Sanitaire a répondu très obligeamment à ma demande et a autorisé M. Gottschlich à nous les envoyer.

Il s'agit, en tout, de 6 vibrions provenant de 6 cadavres de pèlerins.

Après les recherches très soigneuses et très minutieuses des professeurs Drs. Kolle et Meiniche, je partage l'opinion des experts bactériologues d'Egypte qui disent qu'il s'agit, sans aucun doute, dans tous ces cas, des véritables vibrions de choléra.

Le résultat de l'examen bactériologique ne peut même pas être ébranlé par le fait que pendant le pèlerinage aucun cas n'a été constaté qui ressemblât au choléra au point de vue clinique ou anatomo-pathologique.

Nous savions déjà que des personnes ayant été exposées à l'infection, peuvent héberger les germes spécifiques du choléra dans leurs intestins sans montrer cliniquement les moindres symptômes de la maladie.

Nous savions aussi par des observations antérieures que des porteurs de choléra peuvent sans altération visible de leur santé héberger dans leurs intestins pendant 7 ou 8 semaines des vibrions capables de se reproduire.

Les observations de Tor nous apprennent que ce temps peut être, selon les circonstances, encore plus long, et que, même, plusieurs porteurs de choléra n'occasionnent pas toujours la maladie dans leur entourage.

Pour le moment il nous est impossible de trancher la question de savoir si les vibrions de choléra perdent peu à peu leur virulence pour d'autres personnes par le séjour prolongé dans l'intestin d'un homme, fait pour lequel parlent quelques symptômes de dégénérescence observés sur certaines de ces 6 colonies.

Dans le cas qui nous intéresse, il faut aussi se rendre compte qu'il est plus que probable que les pèlerins russes et turcs hébergeant en eux le germe de la maladie, n'ont pas provoqué des cas de choléra dans leur entourage parce que les vibrions étaient très rares ou une occasion favorable a manqué pour les reporter sur des individus accessibles à la maladie.

Il faut reconnaître que, pour le conseil sanitaire d'Alexandrie, des découvertes comme celles de Tor font surgir de grosses difficultés.

De quelque manière que l'on veuille les résoudre il faut apprécier dans toute sa valeur l'épreuve de la présence de vibrions cholériques, chez des pèlerins, même si aucun cas de choléra n'a été observé.

Le Directeur,
DR. GAFFKY,
Conseiller médical intime.

(De midi à 1h. p.m.)

Coton.—Le marché était soutenu, mais sur l'avant-bourse de Liverpool qui n'a nullement répondu à l'Amérique, la clôture a été calme et quelque peu en baisse pour le novembre.

L'août, par contre, est resté ferme et a même gagné une fraction.

Graines de coton.—Marché peu actif, mais cours soutenus.

Fèves.—Marché nul et cours nominaux comme le prouve la cote.

Further terms of imprisonment by Tribunals	19	22	24

The continued decrease in corporal punishment is very satisfactory.

VITAL.

The report of the Principal Medical Officer with statistics (Tables XV. to XIX.) will be found in the appendix. Dr. Kirton has at my request dealt at considerable length with the various causes tending to increase sickness and mortality in the Central Prisons and has analysed the returns practically from every point of view. I think that the tables he has worked out are well worth the attention of Medical and Sanitary experts.

Mortality.

It will be seen that the mortality has dropped to 19.8 per thousand mils, with one exception (1901 with 17.3) to the lowest yet reached.

Tuberculosis is still the cause of a large number (32) of deaths, and may, I suppose, be attributed to the overcrowding throughout this and previous years, notwithstanding that little or no fault can now be found with the ventilation. In fact if it had not been for the practically perfect ventilation it would have been impossible to have accommodated all the prisoners committed to prison during the year.

Deaths stated to be due to diseases of the digestive system, diarrhœa, etc., amount to 85, the largest number yet recorded in any one year. In this respect it is rather remarkable that September (when the Nile is in full flood) was the most unhealthy and January, February and March the healthiest months.

An outbreak of typhus occurred in Beni-Suef during the spring and accounted for 12 deaths, otherwise the prisons have been free from any epidemic. I agree with Dr. Kirton that considering that typhus has been prevalent in Egypt more or less throughout the year and that every prison has been very much overcrowded, it shows great care on the part of the Medical Officers that no other serious outbreak occurred.

The health of newly admitted prisoners.

An appreciable percentage of the deaths occurred within the first month of imprisonment, thirty per cent. within first six months and fifty per cent. within the first year. It may be argued therefore that a large percentage of the deaths occurred amongst prisoners who were in bad health on entering a prison. On the other hand the fact that a prisoner's mode of life is entirely changed on imprisonment must not altogether be ignored, and in some instances at all events this sudden change is probably itself the cause of a prisoner's health breaking down.

Personally I am inclined to think that sleeping on straw mats, with asphalt floors and thorough ventilation must be very trying to a prisoner accustomed to bedding or even to the mud floor of an ill-ventilated hut. But the question is whether any change in this respect would not make the prisons too popular. As it is with the ameliorated diet we are dangerously near the line when imprisonment will altogether cease to be deterrent to the lower classes.

Severity of imprisonment for well-to-do persons.

In Egypt one law for both the rich and poor works out very unfairly, as the modes of life vary so, that what is little short of torture to one may be comparative luxury to another, yet it cannot be well left to a prison official or even to a judge to discriminate. It is some satisfaction to feel that if in the case of the well-to-do the punishment is relatively very severe, he is as a rule less deserving of sympathy and has not the same motive for committing crime as one from the lower classes.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

At last! After dragging its slow length along for but one month short of three years, the Bonmartini case has come to an end, and the verdict is given.

The story is a curious one and phsyeologists have found interesting matter for study in the characters of the people concerned.

It will be remembered that on the 2nd September, 1909, the body of Count Bonmartini was found lying in the ante-room of his apartment in Bologna. Although no less than seventeen wounds were counted on the body, proving the savageness of the attack, it was evident that there had been no struggle, for the dead man's clothes were in perfect order, wherever the assassin's knife had not penetrated. The Count had evidently been overpowered before he had been able to make any defence and, from the nature of the wounds, the experts were of opinion that two if not more, were concerned in the murder. A letter found on the table, the disorder of the apartment, and the fact that the Countess's jewellery had been stolen, seemed to leave no possibility of doubt that the Count has fallen a victim in a guet-apens laid for him by some woman and her accomplices. The Countess, and her brother Tullio Murri, added evidence that confirmed this view.

Count Bonmartini had married in 1892 the daughter of Professor Murri, a physician whose name is famous all over Italy. The first six years of their married life were spent happily enough in Padua, but, when in 1898 they settled in Bologna, where Bonmartini wished to study medicine, differences broke out between husband and wife, in which Bologna society took the wife's side so strongly that the Count soon found himself looked upon askance by most of his former friends. Not knowing what reports his wife was spreading about him, we see in the poor man's diary how puzzled he was by the attitude of those around him. Meanwhile Countess Linda was being proclaimed a saint and martyr, a devoted mother, and an injured wife. At last a separation was decided on. This lasted three years, at the end of which time the Count threatened to go to law if his children, a boy and girl, were not restored to him, and his wife, knowing he must gain his cause, consented, to the poor man's great joy, to resume life with him under certain conditions.

This was in April 1902. Towards the end of July, Bonmartini finding life intolerable in Bologna, determined to return to his native town of Padua. Thereupon he was denounced by all his wife's family as the would-be murderer of the unfortunate Linda, and Tullio says he felt his blood boil when he heard of this intolerable cruelty. Such language was somewhat exaggerated when it is remembered that Bologna is within a few hours of Padua, and that the Count had offered his wife a season ticket to enable her to be with her family as much as she liked.

This was at the end of July, and on the 28th August, Bonmartini was murdered. The Countess was at Venice with her children at the time, and that very day she had accompanied her husband to the station after a lunch "en famille" to celebrate his birthday. Linda had announced her husband's arrival to one Rosina Bonetti, a woman of the lowest extraction, her brother Tullio's mistress, to whom Linda wrote in terms of affectionate intimacy!

During the first few days the police made one important discovery. In the house in which the Bonmartinis lived, they found a small apartment, let to a mysterious individual who had never been seen to enter it. The police found there some bottles of wine sim lar to one left behind by the assassins in the Counts apartment, and, among some rubbish, two torn envelopes addressed to a Dr. Secchi, who is well-known in Bologna.

Two days after the discovery of the body, Linda, after a short and hurried examination, had left for Switzerland with her children and brother, not even waiting for her husbands funeral.

The police continued their researches, but without any very definite results, when on the 11th September all Bologna was startled by hearing that Professor Murri, had handed to the police a letter from his son Tullio in which he declared himself, not guilty of the murder of his brother in law, but of having killed him in self-defence. He related how on the evening of the 28th August he had met the Count in his house and had expostulated with him on the way he treated Linda, that the Count had thereupon rushed at him with a knife which, he, in self-defence, had turned on the Count, and with which he had killed him. In a fit of fury, he could not account for he had struck again and again at the dead body. When he had recovered his self control he had forged the letter found, broken open the drawers and taken his sister jewellery away in order to mislead the police.

The next day Rosina was arrested, and two days later the Countess herself, who meanwhile had returned to Bologna as suddenly as she had left. No one knew where Tullio was, but on hearing of his sister's arrest he gave himself up on the 18th.

The discovery of the envelopes addressed to Secchi had started the police on a new trail of evidence. They discovered that the rent of the small apartment had been paid by Tisa Borghi, a servant of Secchi's, who said the money had been given her by the Countess!!

In a small town like Bologna, where the Murris were known to all, it was no mystery that years before, when Linda was a girl of 16 there had been certain love passages between her and Secchi, nipped in the bud by her parents' disapproval, Tisa now, in cross examination, declared that since the Bonmartinis had returned to Bologna the lovers had met again, and that she, Tisa, had acted as go-between, and that the little apartment had been taken by them as a convenient meeting place.

Linda confronted with this evidence, denied nothing. She even acknowledged it with the womanly dignity of which she is so perfect a mistress. "I am convinced", she said, "that no one can blame anything in my conduct as since our reconciliation my husband allowed me entire liberty of action"!!!

Some days before Tullio had given himself up, the police had made another arrest, that of an out-at-elbows doctor, gambler, good-for-nothing, ready to do anybody's dirty work at the lowest price. This man, a friend of Tullio's, and seen with him several times on the days preceeding the murder, had left Bologna suddenly on the night it was committed and as it was ascertained, in possession of, for him, a considerable sum of money. Naldi at once acknowledged that he knew Tullio had determined to get rid of his brother-in-law, and had tried to persuade him to give him a helping hand, but this Naldi had not only refused to do, but raised every argument to prevail on Tullio to renounce his intention. He accounted for the money in his possession in different ways. His last version being that he had stolen it out of Tullio's purse. As to Tullio he denied throughout having any accomplices.

The next few months brought nothing of special interest in the way of evidence. Till then, that against Dr. Secchi was not yet strong enough to justify his arrest but, before the 23rd June, 1903, the police had pieced together what they required, and Secchi was in prison.

His defence is one of the curiosities of the case. The story as told by him, is repeated by Tisa, a witness whose evidence has been accepted as reliable. It is characteristic. He says Tullio came to him one day and told him he was resolved to get rid of his brother-in-law, and asked him what particular poison he would recommend. What did he think of curare? (It was done as simply as that!) and Secchi did not kick him down stairs or express any indignation whatever; he did not even pretend to have felt any! "I strongly advised him not to use curare," he says, convinced that nothing more could be required of him. "I pointed out to him the difficulties of inserting so delicate an instrument as a hypodermic syringe into a strong man determined to defend himself."

And to convince Tullio of the difficulties before him, he arranged he should come and see the effect of curare on a lamb. "Poor Tullio," as Secchi calls him, was upset by seeing how long the lamb took to die. The next day Secchi sent him a syringe and the necessary quantity of poison, "persuaded as I was that he would make no use of it. We joked about the whole thing" he adds "I said Bonetti would have to inject it during dinner, and tell the Count he had been stung by a wasp."

All this would not be worth repeating were it not the serious defence of a man accused of murder. There is a ghastly naïveté about it that would be impossible to a northener however callous. Secchi sees little in the proposed murder but the difficulty of its accomplishment, and says so frankly. It does not rouse his indignation.

A few days after this conversation, Tullio paid his sister a visit in Venice. He went, he says, in the hope of effecting a reconciliation between Bonmartini and Professor Murri, and the relations of the two brothers-in-law on this occasion must have been friendly enough, for Tullio proposed that they should have a wrestling match and Bonmartini consented. Had Bonmartini proved the weaker of the two it is not improbable that the difficulty of injecting the curare would have been got over, for, if we are to believe Tisa Borghi, it had been arranged in her presence that once Tullio had knocked him down, Linda and Rosina were to do the rest.

This occurred a few days before the Count was successfully got rid of. All this happened three years ago. Since then Tullio, Secchi, Linda, Naldi, and Rosina have been awaiting the end of their trial in prison. At last it is over. Sentence has been pronounced. Tullio and Naldi are condemned to thirty years of prison and to ten of "sorveglianza speciale," Linda and Secchi to ten years each, and Bonetti to seven years.

It is difficult to understand why, if Linda and Secchi are guilty at all, their sentence should be so much shorter than Tullio's. He was after all but her tool. They say the jury were moved with pity, and that they took advantage of some quibble to condemn her on some and not all the issues.

Linda has aroused an enormous interest in Italy. She has been compared to every heroine of Greek tragedy, and to every sinister figure in mediæval Italian history. Her defence has inspired her lawyers with such flights of eloquence that one went even so far as to exclaim that when he heard the Public Prosecutor accuse "that innocent woman," he shuddered as he might have done had he seen a sacrilegious hand stretched out to touch the Host!!

Bonmartini was murdered because he was in Linda's way. No one but she had anything to gain by his death. What can her influence have been over these people who risked, and lost their liberty to save her the inconvenience of living at Padua when she preferred remaining in Bologna! The myth of the extreme refinement of mind which made life impossible to her with Bonmartini cannot have been believed by the brother who wrote her humorous accounts of his amorous adventures with the housemaids of his neighbours, nor by the lover who sent her letters so unexpurgated that they had to be read in camera, Linda modestly asking leave to retire while they were read. This influence of hers remains an enigma. It has cost them all dear!

The fact that the Murris, at least Tullio, belong to the socialist party and that Bonmartini was of the clerical, has, absurdly enough, brought politics into the question. It is well the thing is settled. The public prosecutor has been admirable throughout, and it is no faint praise to say that he remained calm and dignified under the volleys of personal abuse that continually interrupted his speeches.

Let us hope there is no truth in a rumour set afloat that an appeal is thought of!

THE PREVALENCE OF MEDITERRANEAN FEVER.

Reports from the committees engaged in the study of Mediterranean fever and sleeping sickness have just been published by the Royal Society. That on Mediterranean fever is the third of a series, the first and second of which showed that the prevalence of the disease was a serious matter, that it was in some way infectious, and that it was caused by the presence in the body of a small organism named micrococcus melitensis.

The new part carries on the history of the investigation since the end of the summer of 1904. It brings forward additional evidence to prove the presence of this organism in the blood and elsewhere. The micrococcus has also been found in goats, a rather high percentage being affected in every herd examined, and it is excreted in considerable numbers in the milk of animals apparently healthy, but in "enormous numbers" when the disease has been present long enough to alter the physical characters of the fluid. It has, however, yet to be proved whether drinking this milk, which is much used in Malta, will give rise to the disease in man, which important point is now being investigated.

The report of the Sleeping Sickness Commission is the fifth. Its predecessors described the geographical distribution of the disease, proved it to be caused by a special form of an organism, called Trypanosoma, in the blood, and the carrier of infection to be a tsetse fly, named Glossina palpalis. There are, however, other forms of Trypanosoma, one or two of them known to produce diseases which have some symptoms in common with sleeping sickness. These have been studied, but the results are not yet numerous enough to warrant any positive conclusions, though they certainly point to the distinctness of the form producing two or three recognised diseases in cattle. The evidence indicates that there is not a specific carrier for each variety of Trypanosoma, and proves that of sleeping sickness to retain its vitality in the stomach of Glossina palpalis for a considerable time after it has been swallowed—in one case for 71 hours. No remedy has yet been found, but these investigations, by clearing the ground and narrowing the inquiry, cannot fail to be helpful for that purpose, and they have, at any rate, already suggested preventives measures.
